Ha Long Bay located in the northeast of Vietnam is the most popular destination for tourists to this part of Vietnam. The islands are made up of grottos and beaches that have been created by the wind and the water that surrounds them although Vietnamese legend says that the islands were created by a mountain dwelling dragon. There are many caves in the Bay which tourists come to explore, some of which have been illuminated, specifically for their benefit. As well as the caves, Cat Ba National Park offers great opportunities for hiking and seeing more of the stunning scenery. There are also many boating and sailing holidays for singles and groups available which will offer you the chance to sail through the bay in varying degrees of comfort and style. If you are visiting Vietnam, even for a short time, then Ha Long Bay has to be on your list of places to see. It has a unique and spectacular landscape and has to be seen to be truly appreciated.
